Contributors

Małgorzata Bartoszewicz, PhD, lecturer at the Faculty of Chemistry of Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. Member of the Council for Distance Education as part of the University Distance Education System and the Distance Learning Support Center UAM (goskab@amu.edu.pl)

Maryna Haran, PhD, senior lecturer, Kherson State University, Kherson, Ukraine. Teaches mathematics, information technology, fundamentals of informatics with elements of programming, methods of teaching mathematics, methods of teaching computer science, ICT in working with children, formation of skills for solving mathematical problems (reus@ksu.ks.ua, m.s.garan3009@gmail.com).

Hanna Gulińska, dr hab., professor, Department of Didactics of Chemistry, Faculty of Chemistry, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. She conducts research in the field of chemistry didactics in the field of multimedia chemical education strategies (including the use of an interactive whiteboard and devices for automatic control and evaluation), visualization of chemical issues, forms of a school textbook, as well as the structure and resources of multibooks and electronic materials on educational platforms, remote teaching (including e-learning and blended learning), the role of a chemical experiment in chemical education of students' cognitive abilities in the field of natural sciences, the effectiveness of using alternative methods in teaching natural issues (gulinska@amu.edu.pl).

Maria Gaidova, MA, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań (margai1@st.amu.edu.pl).

Arkadiusz Orłowski, dr hab., profesor, Warsaw University of Life Sciences (SGGW), Warsaw, Poland, Department of Informatics. Scientific skills and interests: Pattern Recognition, Neural Networks and Artificial Intelligence, Optics, Quantum Mechanics, Image Analysis, Data Mining, Cyber Security, Wave Propagation, Cryptography, Electromagnetics. (Arkadiusz_Orlowski@sggw.pl).

Mihail Petrov, Master of Technology. Mihail Petrov currently works at the Department of Computer Systems, Plovdiv University (Paisii Hilendarski), Bulgaria. He conducts research in Computer and Society, Artificial Neural Network and Artificial Intelligence and Interval Temporal logic (mail@mihail-petrov.me).

Maryna Romaniukha, PhD, associate professor, Department of Translation, Dniprovsky State Technical University, Ukraine. Her scientific interests are: ICT-instruments for linguistic research, cognitive linguistics, ICTs in language teaching, aspects of social media in language learning, personal learning electronic environment, current trends in blended learning. She has over 40 publications, the most recent ones of them deal with different aspects of e-learning in higher education (romanuks@ukr.net).

Olena Sagan, PhD in pedagogy, Doc., head of Department of Natural and Mathematical Disciplines and Speech Therapy, Kherson State University, author of a number of manuals and recommendations, member of the expert council for the defence of theses. Teaches subjects: school course of computer science with teaching methods, methods of teaching computer science in elementary classes, mathematics, fundamentals of computer science with elements of programming (sagan@ksu.ks.ua).

Oksana Shelomovska, PhD in public administration, associate professor of sociology at the Dniprovsky State Technical University (o_nix@ukr.net).

Svitlana Skvortsova, dr hab., professor, head of Department of Teaching of Mathematic in Primary Education, South Ukrainian National Pedagogical University named after K. Ushynskyi, Odesa, Ukraine, correspondent member of Academy of Pedagogical Science of Ukraine (skvo08@i.ua).

Eugenia Smyrnova-Trybulska, dr. hab., associate professor, University of Silesia in Katowice, Faculty of Ethnology and Educational Science in Cieszyn, Poland, head of Department of Humanistic Education and Auxiliary Sciences of Pedagogy (esmyrnova@us.edu.pl).

Liudmyla Sorokina, PhD, scientific secretary of the Dniprovsky State Technical University, Ukraine, associate professor at the Department of Sociology. Her scientific interests are: ICT-instruments for sociological research, current social processes in public life, intercultural and social aspects of communication in the student and academic e-environment. She has around 30 publications, five teaching aids, three monographs. Liudmila Sorokina is the member of Sociological Association of Ukraine, takes active part in preserving the cultural heritage of the region (sludmila1906@gmail.com).

Dawid Staniek, PhD student at the University of Silesia in Katowice, Faculty of Ethnology and Educational Science in Cieszyn, Poland, Department of Humanistic Education and Auxiliary Sciences of Pedagogy (dawid.staniek@gmail.com).

Asya Stoyanova-Doycheva, PhD in Software Engineering, Plovdiv University, Bulgaria. She is lecturer at Plovdiv University "Paisii Hilendarski," Faculty of Mathematics and Informatics (astoyanova@uni-plovdiv.net).

Jolanta Szulc, PhD, Eng., University of Silesia in Katowice, Poland, Faculty of Philology, Institute of Library and Information Science. Doctor of Humanities, specialty bibliology. Graduated from the University of Silesia Faculty of Philology (1991), Faculty of Theology at the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin (1997), the Jagiellonian University Department of Management and Social Communication (2001), the Faculty of Mechanical Engineering (2008) and the Faculty of Automatic Control, Electronics And Computer Science (2012) at the Silesian University of Technology. Assistant professor at the Institute of Library and Information Science at the University of Silesia in Katowice since 2006. Specialises in descriptive cataloguing, subject cataloguing and indexing, information systems, information languages, expert systems and e-learning. Author of several articles in books and journals. Member of the Polish Society of Scientific Information and the ISKO: International Society for Knowledge Organization, member of Association of Academic E-learning, honorary member of the Federation of the Polish Church Libraries FIDES (jolanta. szulc@us.edu.pl).

Vladimir Valkanov, PhD, Vladimir Valkanov received his doctoral degree from the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences, Sofia, Bulgaria. Currently, he is an associate professor at the University of Plovdiv, Bulgaria. His research interests include: context-aware and adaptable software architectures, AI, intelligent agents and multi-agent systems, agent- and service-based architectures, e-learning tools and environments (vvalkanov@uni-plovdiv.net).

Contributors

Tomasz Woźniakowski, PhD, Eng., Faculty of Computer Science and Mathematics. Department of Computer Science. Warsaw University of Life Sciences (SGGW), Warsaw, Poland (tomasz_wozniakowski@sggw.pl).

Kateryna Yalova, PhD, Doc. at the Department of Automated Software Systems in Dniprovsky State Technical University, Ukraine (yalovakateryna@gmail.com).

Ksenia Yashyna, PhD, Doc., head of the Research Unit of the State Technical University, Associate Professor of the Software Department of the Dniprovsky State Technical University, Ukraine (yashinaksenia85@gamil.com).

Dominika Zegzuła, PhD student at the University of Silesia in Katowice, Faculty of Ethnology and Educational Science in Cieszyn, Poland, Department of Humanistic Education and Auxiliary Sciences of Pedagogy (dzegzula@us.edu.pl).

Lucie Zormanová, PhD, Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Silesia in Katowice, Poland (lucie.zormanova@us.edu.pl).