

CONTENTS

Gaston GROSS: Introduction

Antoinette BALIBAR-MRABTI: Morphographies in contemporary French. The place of the duel in written language in Le nombre en français by Jean Dubois and Françoise Dubois-Charlier

Wiesław BANYŚ: Perspectives for linguistics: from descriptive to explanatory linguistics

Xavier BLANCO: Computational linguistics and diachronic linguistics: a necessary alliance

Peter BLUMENTHAL: Words and knowledge: complexity

Jean-Pierre DESCLÉS: How can linguistics get out of its pre-Galilean state?

Gaston GROSS: Rigorous perspectives on linguistics

Claude MULLER: Negation, Syntax, Determiners. An evaluation and some questions

José A. PASCUAL RODRÍGUEZ: On lexical data and the texts that contain them. About the near future of philology

Michele PRANDI: Identifying arguments and hierarchizing margins: formal and conceptual criteria

Dominika DYKTA: How emotions are expressed during the change of code from Italian to dialect in the Talamonese community

Jolanta DYONIZIAK: Argumentative and narrative dimension of media information through the appositive sequences

Katarzyna GABRYSIAK: Lexical-syntactic structures based on the verb FR viser in a scientific text

Agnieszka GWIAZDOWSKA: Coronajerga, covidioma, coronalengua: language changes in times of the pandemic

Vesna JOVANOVIĆ-MIHAYLOV, Lucyna MARCOL-CACÓN: Phraseological units with a somatic component heart in Croatian and Italian — a comparative study

Aleksandra PALICZUK: The Conceptualization of the verb ‘mettere’ (‘to put’) in Italian

Paweł GOLDA, Natalia ŻYWICKA, Vanessa FERREIRA VIEIRA: Combating the supremacy of the masculine over the feminine: Inclusive French in social media publications of French universities

Beata ŚMIGIELSKA: Semantic-syntactic models of predicates in Stanisław Karolak’s conception of semantic-based grammar — some problems and solutions

Ryszard WYLECIOŁ: Cognitive analysis of speech events containing information on the SARS-COV 2 coronavirus and on the COVID-19 disease

Aleksandra ŻŁOBIŃSKA-NOWAK: Terms expressing the concept of love in Greek, their translation into French, and their context of use in the Synoptic Gospels and in the Gospel of John