

CONTENTS

- Svetlana KRYLOSOVA: Presentation
- Igor BOGUSLAVSKIJ, Leonid IOMDIN¹, Leonid KRYSIN: Jurij Apresjan (1930–2024)
- Igor Mel'čuk: So-called independent infinitives in Russian: The construction of the form Ètogo mne ne ponjat' 'It is impossible for me to understand this'
- Lidija IORDANSKAJA: A Pioneering Lexicographic Work: "New Explanatory Dictionary of Russian Synonyms" by Jurij Apresjan
- Alina ISRAELI: Impact of the meanings of the verb moč' on its ability to form past tense and perfective
- Alexei SHMELEV: The Russian Words for Anxiety Revisited
- Magdalena DANIELEWICZOWA: Unqualifiable meta-predicative adverbials in Polish
- Lucie BARQUE: Is metonymy really more regular than metaphor? A first investigation into the French Lexicon
- Sergey SAY, Ilja A. SERŽANT: A Frequency-Based Algorithm for Argument Extraction from Russian Treebanks
- Elena URYSON: On Russian multiplicative verbs (a pilot study)
- Valentina APRESJAN, Vladimir PLUNGIAN, Ekaterina RAKHILINA: Behind the door: how Russian, Kazakh and Armenian encode spatial relations with double-fronted objects
- Irina LEVONTINA: Noun as a Verb
- Dorota SIKORA: The Polish verb tęsknić: lexicographic portraits of a polysemy
- Irina KOR CHAHINE: When The Moment Does Not Last: A Few Words On Moment-Constructions in Russian
- Alexander LETUCHIJ: Partial observation and nonstandard tense uses: Russian perfective verbs in progressive interpretation
- Tilmann REUTHER: Remarks on Ju. D. Apresjan's lexicographic terminology: leksema and vokabula from a multilingual perspective
- Rémi CAMUS: Poskakali! "Let's Flee!" / "Enough Running!": Constructing Instability (The verbs nesti, nosit', skakat' and the prefix po-)
- Svetlana KRYLOSOVA: Defining to Learn and Learning to Define: Rethinking Lexicography for Language Teaching

¹ Leonid Iomdin, a long-time friend and collaborator of Jurij Apresjan, passed away on September 18, 2024, shortly before the completion of this volume.