

CONTENTS

Aleksandra CHRUPAŁA: An automatic translation – illusory hopes or real facts? A lexicographic description of “sweets” in the Quebec variety of French according to the object-oriented method	7
Ewa CISZEWSKA: Translation of futur antérieur to express probability in Polish	24
Anna GRIGOWICZ: The problem of semantic heredity in a description of the parts of the body	37
Joanna JERECZEK-LIPIŃSKA: Word to convince. The impact of the word “liberal” on politics on the example of the referendum campaign on the net	47
Agnieszka KONOWSKA: Semantic neology and proper names: the case of antonomasy	62
Katarzyna KWAPISZ-OSADNIK: French past tenses in the cognitive perspective	84
Dhouha LAJMI: Complex support verbs and actualization of the nominal predicates: contrastive	100
Taoufik MASSOUSSI: Metonymy and categories of arguments	119
Ewa MICZKA: The incorporation of the notions of an experimental frame and cognitive event into the discourse analysis on the basis of the example of fait divers	138
Anna NOWAKOWSKA: Why don’t we want immigrants? Metaphors as a reflection of social relations	147
Agnieszka PASTUCHA-BLIN: Metaphors of the concept of dubbio in Italian language	162
Magdalena PERZ: The category of “natural phenomena” – an attempt to define	178
Ines SFAR: Predicative equivalence; the case of the predicative root	187
Beata ŚMIGIELSKA: Assertion and suggestion in synonymic relations	204
Aleksandra ŻŁOBIŃSKA-NOWAK: The verb monter – its spatial uses, syntactic-semantic schemes and Polish equivalents	217
Anna GRIGOWICZ: Parts of the body and their operators according to the object-oriented conception	228
Ewa MICZKA: A few remarks on constituting the research subject in the linguistics of a text – from text grammars to a cognitive discourse model	243
Beata ŚMIGIELSKA: Remarks on the subject of the context in text automatic translation	253
Aleksandra ŻŁOBIŃSKA-NOWAK: The verb sortir – how to disambiguate and translate it into Polish according to object-oriented approach	268