

Notes on Contributors

Daniel C. Wagner, Ph.D., is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Aquinas College (MI, USA), Faculty Associate at the St. Pope John Paul II Institute, at University of St. Thomas (TX, USA), President of the Society for Thomistic Natural Philosophy, founding member and Editor of Reality: A Journal for Philosophical Discourse, and founding member of The Society for 21st Century Thomism. His research focuses on the Philosophy of Nature and Science, Philosophical Anthropology, and Ethics in Aristotle and St. Thomas Aquinas, and on the synthetic development of Aristotelian and Thomistic philosophy with Phenomenology. The following set of publications of Professor Wagner are of immediate relevance to the current study: “Albertus Magnus and St. Thomas on What Is ‘Better-Known’ in Natural Science,” co-written with John H. Boyer (Proceedings of the American Catholic Philosophical Association, Vol. 93, 2020); “The Logical Terms of Sense Realism: A Thomistic-Aristotelian & Phenomenological Defense” (Reality, Issue 1, Vol. 1, Spring 2020); “On the Foundational Compatibility of Phenomenology & Thomism” (Studia Gilsoniana, September, 2021); The Intelligibility of Nature: The Wallace Reader, Co-Editor with John P. Hittinger and Michael W. Tkacz (Washington D.C.: Catholic University of America Press, 2021); and, φύσις καί τὸ ἀνθρώπινον ἀγαθόν: The Aristotelian Foundations of the Human Good (Dissertation Available through Proquest, written under John P. Hittinger).

Adrian Reimers, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame (BS in mathematics, 1967 and MS in Philosophy, 1973). Adrian J. Reimers received his doctorate from the Internationale Akademie für Philosophie in Liechtenstein in 1989. He now teaches philosophy at Holy Cross College in Indiana, and previously both philosophy and theology courses on John Paul II’s theology of the body at the University of Notre Dame. He has also taught at the Pontifical University of John Paul II in Kraków and lectured at the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin, Poland. In 2011 he conducted research on the thought of Karol Wojtyła (John Paul II) on a Fulbright Fellowship in Poland. With his wife, Marie, Reimers lives in South Bend, Indiana. They are the parents of four grown children and grandparents of five. His books include: The Good is Love: The Body and Human Acts in Humanae vitae and John Paul II (St. Augustine's Press, 2020), Hell and the Mercy of God (Spring, 2017), Karol Wojtyła's Personalist Philosophy: Understanding "Person and Act," co-authored with Miguel Acosta (2016), Truth about the Good: Moral Norms According to John Paul II (Sapientia Press, 2011), The Soul of the Person: A Contemporary Philosophical Psychology (The Catholic University of America Press, 2006), and An Analysis of the Concepts of Self-Fulfillment and Self-Realization in the Thought of Karol Wojtyła, Pope John Paul II (Edwin Mellen Press, 2001). In addition, he has published scholarly articles, primarily but not exclusively on the thought of John Paul II, in a variety of journals.

Malgorzata Chojara-Sobiecka, legal counsel, master of laws, Church licentiate degree in canon law, a Ph.D. student at the Faculty of Theology at the Pontifical University of John Paul II in Kraków; in her professional practice she provides legal support to companies and other entities in the field of civil law, labor law, and administrative law, as well as protection of personal data. As a scholar, she majors in canon law and privacy law. She published in scientific periodicals, e.g.: Studia Warmińskie, Annales Canonici, Prawo Kanoniczne. She works as a secretary in the Council of the Catholic foundation Institute for the Protection of Personal Data Bona Fama.

Piotr Kroczek, Catholic priest, professor of law, doctor of ecumenical theology, judge in Tribunal of Archdiocese of Cracow, chairman of the General Norms and Legal Theory Department at the Faculty of Canon Law at the Pontifical University of John Paul II in Cracow; he majored in legal theory and denominational law, and data protection.

Monika Menke, Mgr. ThLic. ICLic. Th.D., was born in 1975 in Uherské Hradiště. She studied theology at the Saints Cyril and Methodius School of Theology of the Palacký University in Olomouc and canon law at the School of Law, Canon Law, and Administration of the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin. She is currently an assistant professor in the Church Law Department of the Saints Cyril and Methodius School of Theology and at the Department of Theory of Law and Legal History of the Faculty of Law of the Palacký University in Olomouc and a notary of the Interdiocesan Tribunal in Olomouc.

Andrzej Pastwa, Dr. iur. can. habil., Head of Department of Canon Law and Ecumenical Theology of the Faculty of Theology at the University of Silesia; judge at the Metropolitan Ecclesiastical Court in Katowice. Member of Conso-ciatio Internationalis Studio Iuris Canonici Promovendo, Consociatio Iuris Canonici Polonorum, as well as Commission for Polish-Czech and Polish-Slovak Relations of the Polish Academy of Sciences. He has published numerous papers on canon law, especially marriage law, most recently: Il bene dei coniugi. L'identificazione dell'elemento ad validitatem nella giurisprudenza della Rota Romana, [Biblioteca Teologica, Sezione Canonistica, 7], Eupress FTL—Edizioni Cantagalli, Lugano—Siena 2018. Editor-in-chief of the English-language academic journals: Ecumeny and Law and Philosophy and Canon Law.

Stanislav Příbyl, Associate Professor JUDr. Stanislav Příbyl, Ph.D., Th.D., J.C.D., is a priest from the Catholic Archdiocese of Prague. He studied at the School of Law of Charles University in Prague and the School of Canon Law of the Institutum Utriusque Iuris of the Pontifical Lateran University in Rome. He received the degree of associate professor following a successful defence of his dissertation, Tschechisches Staatskirchenrecht nach 1989 (Czech Religion Law after 1989), from the School of Law of University in Trnava (Slovakia). He is a judge and a promoter of justice of the Metropolitan Tribunal in Prague; teaches church law and secular law at the School of Theology of the University of South Bohemia in České Budějovice, and is a scientific co-worker at the Institute for Legal Aspects of Religious Freedom of the University in Trnava, as well as serves as a spiritual administrator at the St. Mary of the Assumption and Charlemagne Church in Prague-Karlovy.

Tomasz Galkowski, CP (born 1967) graduated from the Pontifical Faculty of Theology, the Collegium Bobolanum: SJ in Warsaw. In 1991—1995 studied Canon Law at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome, where on the basis of the dissertation Il quid ius nellà realta umana e nella Chiesa received his doctoral degree. He was awarded of the Bellarmin's Prize for his publication (Analecta Gregoriana 269, Roma 1996). In 2007, he received a postdoctoral degree at the Faculty of Canon Law of the University of Card. St. Wyszyński in Warsaw. His monograph Right—Duty. Priority and Interdependence in the Law Orders: Canonical and the Secular Society was awarded of the Prize of the Rector of the University. He is author of about 100 scientific publications. His scientific interests include issues related to the ratio legis of the canonical norms and issues of common law and canon law. Currently, he is a professor and chair of the Theory of Canon Law at this University.

Damian Němec, born in 1960 in Boskovice (Czech Republic, Moravia), his mother tongue is Czech. Dominican since 1986, ordained priest in 1991, in the years 1998—2002 he served as a provincial of the Czech Dominican Province. Assistant Professor at the Palacky University in Olomouc, teaching canon law and ecclesiastical law at the Faculty of Theology and at the Faculty of Philosophy. Research worker at the Faculty of Law, University of Trnava (Slovak Republic). Translator of several official documents of the Catholic Church into Czech. Translator of liturgical texts of the Catholic Church into Czech. Member of the Canon Law Society (Prague) and its Institute of Ecclesiastical Law. A member of Consociatio Internationalis Studio Iuris Canonici Promovendo (Roma), Societe Internationale de Droit Canonique et de Legislations Religieuses Comparees (Paris), International Consortium for Law And Religion Studies (ICLARS) (Milano) and the European Society for History of Law (Brno).

Elżbieta Szczot, Professor KUL, she holds a post-doctoral degree, a lawyer, expert in canon law, Chair of the Department of Political Science at the Institute of European Studies at the John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin, associated with this university since 1993. She was awarded a Doctor of Canon Law (JCD) in 1998 and became an assistant professor in 2011. Her scientific interests are connected with the rights of the faithful in the Church, sacramental law, family policy, social rights. She is the author of two monographs: Prawo wiernego do Eucharystii według Kodeksu Prawa Kanonicznego z 1983 roku (Lublin 2000) and Ochrona rodziny w prawie Kościoła łacińskiego (Lublin 2011), and the editor of Kuria Rzymska i pomniki chrześcijaństwa na szlaku do Wiecznego Miasta (Lublin 2007), Bronisław Wenanty Zubert OFM „Pro iure et vita”. Wybór Pism (Lublin 2005). She is also a member of Towarzystwo Naukowe KUL, Consociatio Internationalis Studio Iuris Canonici Promovendo (Rome). She is married with two children.