

Contents

Why A Minor Anthropocene? Introduction (Ivana Dobrotová, Małgorzata Wójcik-Dudek)

ARTICLES

A MINOR ANTHROPOCENE

Tadeusz Sławek

Alice Among the Trees. The Forest Home of Imagination

Katarzyna Górzyńska-Herbich

Gert Biesta's World-centred Education Idea and Reading Literature in Primary School in the Anthropocene Era

Alicja Ungeheuer-Gołąb

Literary Images of the Anthropocene as a Call for a Child to Save the World

Alicja Mazan-Mazurkiewicz

The Vulnerability of Living Beings: The Evolution of Calpurnia Tate by Jacqueline Kelly

Karolina Starnawska

How to Save Trees? A Personal Bond with a Tree in the Story Cud kwitnących sadów by Wanda Osuchowska-Orłowska and the Novels Ostatnie drzewo na Ziemi by Małgorzata Kur and A kiedy zniknie pustynia by Marie Pavlenko

Anna Podemska-Kałuża

How to Live on Earth? Anthropocene Students Read Philosophical Tales by Michel Piquemal

Kacper Mika

Contemporary silva rerum – Ecological Inclinations of J.R.R. Tolkien as an Element of Polish Language Teaching

Michał Paluch

Seedlings of Thought and Flames of Hope – Developing Deep Competence in the Process of Family Self-therapy

VARIA

Kinga Matuszko

Cinderella Goes to War? Phallocentrism and Pseudo-feminism in a Fairy Tale Dystopia
(Based on the Example of Cinderella Is Dead by Kalynn Bayron)

Anna Maria Warzocha

(No) Taboo in Literature (No) Separate: On Crossing Boundaries in David's Walliams Texts

Agata Klichowska, Maciej Skowera

Soundscapes in Children's and Young Adult Literature – A Research Report